SALISBURY CONSULTS WITH CABINET.

ENGLAND'S COMING QUEEN, THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

(From a recent photograph.)

M'KINLEY GETS OSBORNE NEWS.

Every Phase of the British Queen's Illness Is Cabled to Washington Quickly.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The greatest interest and sympathy is manifested in official circles here in the condition of the Queen. Every bulletin coming by cable is awaited with anxiety.

While the President and the members of his Cabinet and other high officials are by their own request promptly notified of every change in the sad scene at Osborne, all of the employees in the executive departments, even to the humblest messenger, are equally diligent in seeking for the latest information.

When the end comes the President will communicate directly from the White House an expression of his regret to the Prince of Wales, or rather to King Edward VII., as he will be by the time the message is mailed.

Secretary Hay will communicate to Ambassador Choate an official expression of the sentiments of this Government. This will be by cable also. Later on more formal exchanges will take place by mail.

By this means the State Department will be officially informed of the accession of the new Monarch to the throne, and will return its official acknowledgments, and that will be all that is prescribed by the rules of official etiquette.

OUR SYMPATHY IS DEEPLY FELT.

No Expressions Are So Appreciated, the London Newspapers Declare.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—While expressions of sympathy and love are pouring in from every quarter of both hemispheres, none are so appreciated as those from the United States. The Globe voices the sentiment, saying:

PRAYER IN SENATE FOR VICTORIA'S LIFE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The chaplain of the Senate delivered the following prayer for Queen Victoria at the opening of the session:

"With a multitude which no man can number, we come with tremendous anxiety and the profound awe to the bedside of the great, good Queen, who lies on the border of two worlds, living for more than threescore years in the fierce light which beats upon a throne, by her conduct and character she has won not only the loyalty of her own people, but the veneration and homage of all true-hearted men and women around the world. And now, as it seems she is to depart from the earth, crowned with the blessings and love of countless myriads of the human family, let Thy Heavenly grace cheer and sustain her in this supreme hour.

"Liberate Minister Thy tender sympathies to all the members of her bereaved family and to the people of her realm, who feel as if their mother were departing from them. We confide her, her children and her people to Thy Almighty care and providence, through Jesus Christ our Saviour."

KING LEOPOLD WAITS.

Belgian Ruler Changes His Mind and Will Not Go to England.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—In a despatch from Ostend, it is said that the arrangements for the departure of the King of the Belgians for England have been countermanded.

WHOLE WORLD IS MOURNING.

But Pro-Boer Paper in Belgium Attacks British Policy.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The despatches received here from nearly every capital in Europe, from India, Australia, Jamaica and all the British colonies, show the press and people to be sympathetic in their comment on the Queen's illness.

One startling exception is Belgium. A majority of the Brussels comment is in good taste, but one pro-Boer paper takes the occasion to make a political attack on Great Britain's South African policy.

A despatch from Pretoria says the Queen's illness has caused a profound sensation there. Special prayers were offered in all the churches of the garrison town yesterday evening.

Many functions in Great Britain and on the continent have been abandoned owing to the Queen's condition. Emperor Francis Joseph has countermanded the court ball at Vienna, fixed for this evening.

STORY OF DEATH WAS SPREAD.

Lowering of Flag at Embassy Started a Rumor in London.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The scenes about the Mansion House to-day exemplified the intensity of the common anxiety which has made all interests here akin. Thousands gathered there as the day wore on, and nothing could be more impressive than the profound silence with which the announcements of the alternating phases of the crisis were heard.

A painful mistake was made early in the afternoon. The flag over one of the Embassies was lowered, and a people rushed off with the news that the Queen was dead. Without waiting for a verification other flags in the vicinity were lowered, and some time elapsed before the error was rectified.

NATION WAITS WITH PROFOUND SORROW QUEEN'S DEATH

VICTORIA WAS ABLE TO RECOGNIZE THE EMPEROR.

She was able to recognize the Emperor of Germany, who arrived at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, at 11 A. M. to-day.

The Princess of Wales, told the patients at the sick soldiers' hospital that the Queen was somewhat better.

FINED FOR SELLING ADULTERATED MILK. A woman who was charged with selling adulterated milk, was fined 10s. and costs 5s. by the court.

ITALIAN WOUNDS TWO PERSONS. A man and a woman were wounded by a falling chimney in the city of Rome.

NEGRO HEAVY TROLLEY CAR.

A trolley car was overturned in New Orleans, killing several people.

RESULTS AT NEW ORLEANS.

BULLETINS ON QUEEN.

The following official bulletin was issued at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, at 11 A. M. to-day:

"The Queen has slightly rallied since midnight. Her Majesty has taken some food and refreshing sleep. There is no further loss of strength, but symptoms which give rise to most anxiety are those which point to local obstruction in brain circulation."

HOLDS HER IMPROVEMENT. OSBORNE HOUSE, 5 P. M.—The following official bulletin has been posted: "The slight improvement of this morning is maintained."

ANOTHER SLIGHT RALLY. COWES, Isle of Wight, Jan. 21—7 P. M.—The Queen's condition is slightly improved.

LORD PAUNCEFOTE THANKS THE EVENING WORLD.

The Evening World to-day called up the British Legation at Washington over the long-distance telephone and told Lord Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, of the Queen's condition.

"This is the latest news we have received," he said, "and I thank The Evening World for its courtesy. We are hoping that we may hear favorable news, but we fear the worst."

Paralysis Has Spread to Vital Parts and There Is No Hope for the Aged Monarch—Cabinet Makes Plans for Accession of New King.

(Copyright, 1901, by the Press Publishing Company, New York World.) (Special Cable Despatch to The Evening World.)

LONDON, Jan. 21—8 P. M.

Prime Minister Salisbury, after arranging with the Cabinet for the event of death, hastened to Osborne, where Home Secretary Ritchie had preceded him. All contingencies, political and otherwise, have now been provided for.

A private message from Cowes says: "The crisis is at hand, the Queen cannot live through the night."

THE PARALYSIS HAS SPREAD TO VITAL PARTS. There is no hope. Bulletins containing this news were posted at the Mansion House and the newspaper offices and were eagerly read by the sad crowds this evening. It was felt that Victoria could not outlive the night.

Nourishment is being artificially administered, and oxygen is used to aid respiration. All the near relatives of the Queen that could come are at her bedside.

CABINET MEETS A GRAVE CRISIS.

Premier Salisbury Hastens to Osborne to Confer with Prince.

LONDON, Jan. 21. The inner circle of the Cabinet was in session this afternoon to decide on the official procedure necessary in the event of the Queen's death.

Premier Salisbury and the Marquis of Lansdowne were both present. After the conference the Premier, it was said, would proceed at once to Osborne to confer with the Prince of Wales and the Royal Dukes.

EMPEROR AT THE BEDSIDE.

Prince of Wales and Royal Dukes Break Down on Reaching Cowes.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Jan. 21—12:15 P. M.—Shortly before the official announcement of the health of the Queen was issued Emperor William, the Prince of Wales and their party drove up to Osborne House. A gossamer crowd met them as they disembarked at Cowes. There was no cheering, but the men present took their hats off, and the German Emperor cordially and frequently responded by bowing.

They drove to Osborne House in open carriages. The Prince of Wales appeared to be half-dazed, and the Duke of York's eyes were red, while the Duchess of Connaught did not cease crying.

There was intense relief at Osborne House on the arrival of the Imperial and Royal party, for several times during the course of the morning it was feared the Queen would not live to hear of the Prince of Wales's return.

The Queen's slight rally was followed by a gradual sinking, which, if continued, it was felt would result in her speedy death. No surprise would be felt if her death were announced at any moment.

QUEEN'S CASE HOPELESS, BUT SHE FIGHTS DEATH.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Jan. 21—4:35 P. M.

A slight improvement is said to be visible in the Queen's condition, but there is no hope of anything but a fatal ending. The night is awaited with the greatest anxiety.

The Palace is packed. There is scarcely room for the Emperor of Germany and his staff. Inquiries from all parts of the world continue to pour in.

The Home Secretary, Mr. C. T. Ritchie, who had temporarily left Osborne, has been ressumoned.

ROYAL DUKES IN TEARS.

LONDON, Jan. 21, 6 P. M.

Emperor William of Germany, the Prince of Wales, Duke of York, and the Duke of Connaught have all reached Osborne House and are at the deathbed of the Queen.

Private despatches say the heir-apparent broke down at Osborne, and the Dukes of York and Connaught did not attempt to conceal their grief. THEY WEPT FREELY ON ALIGHTING FROM THEIR SPECIAL TRAIN, WHILE THE GERMAN EMPEROR'S EYES WERE RED.

Speaker Gully, of the House of Commons, received a telegram this afternoon saying the Queen was dying.

A telephone message, timed at Osborne House 4 P. M., says: "The Queen is very slightly better."

There is little trust, however, in the rally proving permanent.

KAISER'S VISIT IS TOO LATE.

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—The Foreign Office has received information since Emperor William's arrival at Osborne House that the condition of the Queen is hopeless.

The visit of the Emperor's visit was to deliver special parting messages on behalf of himself and his mother, but it is believed at the British Embassy here that the Queen has been unconscious since Wednesday night. The British Embassy officials have cancelled all invitations and acceptances.
